Battle of the Councils

By Jake Wilk

While being in a fraternity consists of rush, social events, and brotherhood, one aspect sometimes forgotten is the philanthropic capabilities of a Greek organization. This past spring, our fraternity helped to start the First Annual Battle of the Councils, which is a basketball tournament between Alpha Epsilon Pi, Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Phi Alpha, and the Que. This is the first event where multiple brotherhoods from all of the Greek Life councils came to participate in a philanthropic event. Congratulations to Phi Delta Theta on taking first place. We look forward to continuing this annual philanthropic activity while also including more chapters to participate.

Along with this event, we look forward to starting a new philanthropy event, the Puppies and Pi Boys. This is a daylong effort that will take place this year in order to raise money, which will be donated to a worthy cause. If you have any suggestions about which cause would be a good idea, please reach out.

The concept of Tzedakah is an important Jewish value that we as a brotherhood hold dearly and we plan to fulfill this value through our philanthropic events this coming year.

Fraternally,
Jake Wilk

Elephante Block

By Mitch Barnett

So you're probably wondering, who is Elephante? Well he is an EDM DJ who has performed at music festivals such as Moonrise and was main stage at Electric Zoo. For our first block (aka tailgate) against Indiana, we decided to pair with Sigma Alpha Epsilon and contract two DJs, Justin Caruso and Elephante. Caruso is a DJ and student from University of Southern California who opened up for Elephante.

It is reported that Elephante said to one of the brothers, "Even though I'm from Ann Arbor and supposed to hate you, this was the most lit college party I've played at."

We plan to continue having a blast at our blocks this fall, and we would love for you all to come check out our block during alumni weekend for the Maryland game.

Fraternally,
Mitch Barnett

Trust the Process

By Noah Berko

The brothers of the Philadelphia 76ers have continued to use this phrase throughout their many years of rebuilding. I immediately caught on to this phrase and will use it during my term as Pledgemaster of this fraternity. I have been looking forward to this role for a while now and I want to strengthen the seven fall pledges that we currently have along with properly introducing them into the brotherhood.

I would like to thank the previous Pledgemaster Danny Pierce for guidance and help with this process along with my Pledgemaster Adam Sidrane who has had a lasting effect on me.

I plan on working with the pledges in order to help them grow as people and help them grow into the brotherhood. At the end of the day, these pledges will become our brothers and the next leaders of the fraternity. We want to see them grow and progress. Ultimately, they need to trust the process.

While I am focused on helping incorporate these pledges into our fraternity, I am also looking forward to my term in the spring as Pledgemaster where freshmen can pledge.

My dad, Eric Berko, was in the Eta Chapter and I plan to make him proud with how I help these pledges grow as people and as brothers.

Fraternally,
Noah Berko

A Note from Our Lieutenant Master

By Dan Goldstein

Part of my job as Lieutenant Master is that I help take care of a majority of the main house issues. Over the summer and in the beginning of the year, I work tirelessly with ESPONDA Associates to renovate the house.

Some of the renovations to the house included:

- New wifi system
- Repainting chapter room, staircases, and third and fourth floors
- Buying dinner tables and chairs
- Hiring a new cooking company
- Adding TVs to the first and second floors.

While these renovations have helped the quality of the house, we are always looking for ways to help improve the house. If you want to help in anyway, please do not hesitate to reach out. We are always looking for help in these situations.

Another part of my job is to manage the minor board. One thing that we are focusing much effort on this semester is our philanthropic events. We are currently planning the Puppies and Pi Boys and our Battle of the Councils basketball tournament.

Overall, I look forward to continuing my term this semester and helping the fraternity grow to newer heights.

Fraternally,

Dan Goldstein

Note from Our Master

By Corey Greenblat

Brothers,

For those who do not know me, my name is Corey Greenblat. I am a senior studying Political Science. As I begin the second half of my term, I have realized how much I have grown in this process, along with the chapter as a whole. We have made incredible strides since the executive board took over and we plan on continuing those strides along with helping the future executive board members thrive in leading this fraternity.

During my time as Master, we have had philanthropic events; we were awarded the best fraternity at BuckeyeThon, and had exciting social events. While these are all great for the chapter, we continuously strive to also do things outside of just the current brothers of the chapter. We want to include the alumni in what is going on with the Eta Chapter. Because of that, we would love to see you all at the alumni weekend. This will be the weekend of October 6-7 for the Maryland Homecoming game. It is very important to me that we have our alumni involved and feels like they are still active in our brotherhood.

If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to reach out to me or respond to this email. Alumni thoughts are always welcome.

Fraternally,

Corey Greenbat
