MASTER'S MESSAGE

As students entering college for the first time, you are indeed fortunate in reaching the highest plateau of your formal education. As a student whose goals are centered around a pre-determined career or as a student whose career is yet to be determined, the University of Florida can best fulfill the needs of your college education. Academic excellence in all fields of study is a prime goal of the University and its staff.

Fraternity life also plays a prominent part in a student's education. The teachings of scholarship, leadership, loyalty and responsibility are a major part of a fraternity's program. The lasting relationship a person finds by living together in the same house with young men from the same background, tastes and aspirations, is another major aspect of fraternity life. All this added together forms the mystical bond of brotherhood, a fraternity's most cherished possession.

As you have looked through our book, I hope that you have also seen the achievements as well as the inseparable bond of friendship found in fraternity life. The men of Alpha Epsilon Pi have always had great pride in the achievements of members of the Chapter in fulfilling the highest ideals of fraternity living. As Master of Alpha Epsilon Pi, I express to you on behalf of myself and the men of A-E-Pi, the best of luck and fortune in the coming future.

By aiding academic achievement, a fraternity can perform one of its most tangible benefits to an individual.

Alpha Epsilon Pi has developed an effective academic program that has resulted in many national awards in addition to the University of Florida's President's Award. This award is presented annually by the Inter Fraternity Council to the fraternity with the highest scholastic average.

Our academic program consists of study hours, lectures by University professors, individual help and a complete and comprehensive file of study guides, course notes and practice examinations for the majority of courses offered at the University. This program instills good study habits early in one's college career. In addition to the points outlined in our program, new members can always find added help by consulting our chart listing the course numbers and the names of brothers receiving a "B" or above in it.

Each year, an ever increasing number of our pledges and brothers attain above a 3.5 average and become eligible for membership in Phi Eta Sigma, the freshmen honor society.

The majority of men pictured on this page have a 3.0 average.

The other three made 4.0's.

PLEDGING

The pledge period is a time of adjustment to a different way of life and to new people, the friendships that develop and grow during college days, last for years after.

It's a time of study and hard work, with the ever present goal of the 2.0 or above average needed for initiation. But there's also fun and lots of it, beer blasts, parties, the spirit one feels cheering on a winning team, working together on those all too frequent work sessions, the sense of belonging, the friendship that's always there when you need it most.

As the fraternity expects certain things in a pledge, the pledge in turn has the right to expect many things from a fraternity. To say that other fraternities do not offer the above would be untrue, but to state that Alpha Epsilon Pi goes about achieving these things in a unique way cannot be argued.

Maturity is the difference. Maturity in pledge training, in the development of better study habits, and instilling the feeling of cooperation.

The Phi Gamma pledge program has been written up in the "All Florida" Magazine (10-16-60) and has received awards from AEPi National in addition to commendation from the university.

Pledge hazing in the form of Hell Week has been eliminated for the more descriptive title — Help Week. This week is spent in services to the university, the community, and the less fortunate. Whether collecting money for the Heart Fund or giving a Christmas party for the under privileged children, the experience of giving is always a rewarding one.

In substituting community service for Hell Week and the development of a realistic approach of the fraternities obligations to its members and community, a pledge is better qualified to accept the responsibilities of brotherhood and even more so, to accept those of the community upon graduation.

Politics play a vital role in the proper functioning of the university. A fraternity, by actively engaging in campus political life, not only helps provide the university with able, responsible men, but in so doing, the fraternity enables its members to individually advance up the political ladder.

Alpha Epsilon Pi, realizing the importance of politics on campus, has an established, active political program. We encourage every freshman to participate in campus affairs and provide for them the opportunities for advancement that only a well organized political house is able to do.

The AEPi freshman interested in politics, has the complete support of a hundred man house behind him. With so many of our brothers positively participating in campus activities and highly skilled in the intricacies of college politics, the interested freshman is in a very advantageous position.

Participation in a political extra curricular serves a two fold purpose. It gives the individual the invaluable experience of leadership training, while at the same time providing him with the satisfaction one gets by aiding his university, his fraternity, and most importantly, one's self.

Exemplifying the respect held for AEPi leaders on campus, Florida Blue Key, honorary leadership fraternity, tapped brother Fred Feinstein for membership. Fred served as Chief Justice of the Traffic Court for two years as well as holding several other key positions on campus. Brother Joel Sachs serves on the President's Council, as Secretary of the Interior, as such, he is in charge of all campus elections, student insurance and several other facets in the student government organization.

The Interfraternity Council, the powerful ruling body of the fraternity system, is abundantly represented with AEPi's. Mark Demsky is currently serving as Vice-President of this entire organization of 26 fraternities. AEPi also has the district representative to the IFC. Stu Logan is now serving as the IFC's Public Relations Chairman. Bob Cole and Gerry Richman hold spots on the rush and scholarship committees.

AEPi has shown itself to be the spawning ground for many campus leaders. Academic Affairs Chairman was Brother Sam Zorn, with Barry Goldstein working under him. Gator Growl, the largest student participation show in United States was produced by brother Zorn. Sam also served as President of Alpha Delta Sigma professional fraternity. Our Lt. Master, Marty Schwartz served on the Florida Blue Key Speaker's Bureau and the Football Seating Committee in addition to his offices inside the house. Brother Gerald Richman is presently serving as Honor Court Justice. Andy Hall is Vice-President of Pi Mu Medical Society. This year, Howard Glicken was Frolics Chairman.

As you can see, our political program is practical and diverse, designed to aid each interested individual in attaining the highest possible level in accordance with his capabilities and ambitions.

CHANTEERS

"I hear you'r having Doctor Feel Good and the Interns this week."

"No, we had them last week."

"Then it's probably Hank Ballard and Midnighters."

"He's scheduled for next week. This week we're having the Chanteers, or it could be the Tams."

As you can probably tell from the conversation, AEPi goes all out for parties, big name parties. Besides the entertainers mentioned above, there was Texas Ray, the Lemon Drops and others. How many in all? Well, how many weekends are there?

Sound boastful? Well maybe, but we have a lot to boast about. Blue and Gold, Frolics, Homecoming. To begin with, our house was designed to hold the swinginest parties on campus. The first level and stage overlooks the biggest dance and party area of any house and there's not an inch of wasted space come Saturday night.

A football weekend gives us a little extra to look forward to. The dated weekend begins with dinner Friday night and a party later that evening with such groups as Jake and the Blenders, Bobby Lewis, or Little Johnny Ace to entertain us. There's a brunch Saturday afternoon where the air is filled with anxiety about the coming game. By game time you'll see the AEPi's and their dates sitting in the fraternity block (usually on the 50 yard line). There's dinner and the theme for the evening's party is announced. Whether it be western, pajama, or Hawaiian, you can be sure of plenty of laughter and AEPi spirit.

But social life is not just reserved for the weekends. Most Wednesday nights are set aside for exchange dinners and socials with sororities like Tri Delt, Delta Gamma, Alpha Epsilon Phi, and Alpha Chi Omega.

Our '63-'64 talent line up looks great with lots of surprise and unusual party themes with a scheduled weekend in Daytona.

Sound impressive? We hope so. After all, we have a reputation to uphold.

FOOTBALL

HANDBALL

AEPi—15 DTD—11

To the men of Alpha Epsilon Pi, athletics is more than just winning or losing. Each athletic event is a time to get together with our dates and show the spirit that AEPi is known for. There are moments of happiness and cheers, and there are moments of disappointment and sorrow. But whether winning or losing, the men of AEPi are behind their teams. All members of the fraternity are eligible to play all sports with the one restriction being ability.

The athletic program of the University is one of the finest in the South. The program for fraternities is governed by the men themselves. Whether as a player or a coordinator, there is a place in the intramurals program for everyone interested. Sportsmanship and fair play is emphasized by the University as well as by AEPi. The intramurals program, run by fraternity men, for fraternity men, has helped us in our goal of building well rounded fraternity men.

Our program for the year started with waterbasketball. This was one of the most thrilling and heartbreaking games ever seen at the University. With only seconds to go, the Phi Delts, winners of the trophy for the past several years, sank the winning shot. The fine play of Marc Cowan, Al Levin and Steve Chase will certainly make AEPi strong contenders for next years trophy.

In footbball, the AEPis showed once again why they are always rated as favorites. After defeating the Beta's, 24 to 6, and Theta Chi's, 26 to 6, our efforts brought us to a game with the Kappa Sigs for the bracket championship. The game ended in a six to six tie. Amid the excitement and cheering of both teams, the Kappa Sigs had been credited with one more first down than AEPi. Although disappointed, the team is ready to come back next year and take back the Orange League trophy. Outstanding players for the AEPi's were: Ends Sonny Weil, and Ed Pottlitzer, Tailback Larry Poaster and Quarterback Pete Hennes.

Track and Volleyball saw the AEP's add more points to their Orange League total. A third place finish in the hundred yard dash and a fourth place finish in the high jump were the rewards of the fine efforts of trackmen Neil Keys and Meyer Wolfson. Volleyball season saw the AEP's upset highly favored Delta Tau

ATHLETICS

Delta. Outstanding spirit and effort by Steve Chase, Barry Goldstein and Ed Pottlitzer sparked the team.

On the way to the semi-finals of the Orange League, the AEPi's knocked off Theta Chi and Pi Lambda Phi. Against the Pi Lams, the AEPi's showed how effort and good bowling combine to win the tough ones. In the semi-finals, the AEPi's were defeated by one pin out of a total of almost three thousand. A heartbreaking loss, but a fine season and congratulations to Mark Demsky, Larry Israel, Ken Levine and Les Fensterheim.

The AEPis faired well in Basketball and Handball. A fine victory over KA in basketball added more points to our growing total. The first year play of Phil Freiden and the outstanding play of Pete Hennes, Steve Chase and Ed Pottlitzer gives us high hopes for next year's trophy. Handball season found the AEPi's winning games from the Sig Eps and the Pikes. Outstanding players were Ed Pottlitzer, Al Levin and Marty Schuartz.

Softball, our best sport of the year, found the AEPis going all the way to the finals. We defeated such teams at KA, Theta Chi, Sig Ep, and Phi Delta Theta. All of our victories were by wide margins. Our fine pitcher, Gene Paul, did not give up a run until midway in the third game. Outstanding players and hitters were: Sonny Weil, Ed Pottlitzer, Larry Poster and Pete Hennes.

Outstanding Pledge Athlete of the year was Buddy Bernard. Buddy was not only a player, but also a coordinator in football and volleyball.

Once again, the outstanding Brother Athlete of the year was Ed Pottlitzer. Ed retired the trophy and a new one will be started next year. Ed has been on the All Campus football, ping-pong and softball teams. Ed is a remarkable athlete and scholar and has for three years put an all out effort to advance athletics for AEPi. Congratulations to Brother Athlete of the year, Ed Pottlitzer.

It was a fine year for the men of AEPi, and each of us are looking forward to September when we can put our program to the test once more. We are proud of that program, calling for spirit and effort, as well as ability, and look forward to the coming year with hopes of bringing the Orange League Trophy to the AEPi house.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

A fraternity soon realizes that its organization, manpower and spirit can be of great service to the school and community. This realization has enabled Phi Gamma Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Pi to win four national community service awards in addition to much local recognition.

Each semester worthwhile local projects are gone over as to their merit and benefit to the community. The majority of the selected projects are scheduled during "Help Week" when all the spirit and enthusiasm of our soon to be initiated brothers can be channeled to these activities. "Help Week" projects may include a city beautification program, Heart Fund Drives and various campus activities. The remaining projects are evenly spaced throughout the school year.

Our annual Christmas party, complete with Santa, presents and ice cream is held in the children's ward of the J. Hillis Miller Health Center and contributes much to the high spirits of the children.

But this spirit of giving is not just confined to the Christmas season. In cooperation with the Inter Fraternity Council's Campus Blood Drive, AEPi received first place in monthly and over all donations.

Through a good community service program, Alpha Epsilon Pi is helping to gain a favorable name for itself and the fraternity system on the University of Florida campus.

PLEDGE MASTER'S MESSAGE

Fraternities, today are going through a period of transition. Gone are the days of the "hell raising", "goldfish eating" social club, instead fraternities are emerging as a character molding, community minded organization. This transition has come about for many reasons; the recent pressure on the fraternity system as a college "frill", the increasing influx of junior college graduates which demand more mature pledge and social programs, and finally, the realization that a fraternity can perform a valuable service to the individual and the community.

This is not to say that a fraternity has turned into an archaic, staid institution, completely void of brotherhood and enjoyment. On the contrary, these activities have been channeled to a more productive end.

Through the scholarship program of Alpha Epsilon Pi, pledges learn good study habits early in college life. These study habits stay with them throughout their college days. The awarding of the President's Scholarship Trophy to Alpha Epsilon Pi proves our program is effective.

A full social life gives one an opportunity to gain and develop social poise and self confidence.

Through our competitive intramural program, sportsmanship and a sense of fair play can be learned.

Internal and external political activity permits a man to advance as far as his leadership capabilities and drive allow.

Above all, AEPi offers brotherhood, an intangible concept in itself that can only be described or felt when one becomes an integral part of an organization such as AEPi.

Alpha Epsilon Pi began a program of transition 11 years ago when we were founded on a premise of maturity in all aspects of fraternity life.

Today we stand ready to meet the challenge of the "new fraternity system", but even more important, our men stand ready to meet another challenge, that of life upon graduation.
